d) iii) most of its rulers were competent

e) The earliest king of Mewar was Bappa Rawal

f) Rana Kumbha glorified Mewar through victories and developmental works. Also during his reign, literature and art flourished.

g) The writer finds the people’s firm but pleasant nature worth admiration. He also appreciates their cheerful and liberal nature.
The ruins of many structures prove that Mewar was rich in art and culture. At midst war too, art and creative pursuits of literature and artists did not suffer. Also the administration was liberal as it allowed people from other communities and kingdoms to carry out construction work.

Both the capitals, Vijay Stambh and Kuti Stambh standing side by side reveal the proximity between the king and the subjects of Mewar. This shows that the king cared for the subjects. Also people from other communities were allowed to carry out construction work.

The erection of Vijaya Stambh and Kuti Stambh in the same fort set signifies the proximity between the king and his subjects.

Collecting and preserving things

Many people tend to collect things for different reasons. A person collects unwanted things like strings and papers and creates clutter. Their cupboards, drawers and attics are littered with things that they assume to be of use in future. Old people accumulate things due to weakness and sentimentality. Women like to collect model clothes which they wish to buy. Women collect newspapers, sketches of clothes as they wish to keep them. Some people make collecting stamps, records and books their hobby. They enjoy many benefits as they compare notes and discuss their about their collection to other collectors. They also make new friends and may be asked to address gatherings.

Subject: Complaint regarding flat kindly refer to your registration number 568/42/38 for the booking of flat A9D in Spuria apartments. The flat was bought on 2-1-16.

Sir,

I regret to inform you that our stay is in this flat has not been pleasant.
It doesn't provide the standards claimed by the said P&G builders. The wall paint keeps peeling off. There is seepage of water in the walls which can be quite hazardous. Leaking sanitary fittings and improper functioning of lift cause great trouble to the residents.

Kindly look into the matter and make necessary repair arrangements to improve the condition of the flat. As the contract clearly states provision of free service against any fault by the builders.

Yours sincerely,
Karuna

Respected Principal, teachers and my dear friends,
I am very warm good morning to one and all present here.

Today I, Karuna of class XII-A stand before you to talk about how “discipline shapes the future of a student.”

You all may know the story of the ant and the grasshopper. It tells us how the ants being meticulous and disciplined finish their work in summer and enjoy their fruits in winter. On the other hand, the grasshopper lacks orderliness, perseverance, and suffers during the winter.

When we do any work with discipline, we surely reap its fruits later.

Discipline is extremely vital in a student’s life. While it builds their character, it also enables them to live a better organized life. We are taught to be disciplined from a very young age. Keeping quiet in class, moving in a file, speaking politely, standing up when a teacher enters the class are some of the vital habits which we have developed over the years. A disciplined student often turns out to be an excellent and responsible citizen.

If a person attempts to find a job, a main plus point becomes his/her manners and attitude. When you do your work in an orderly and organised manner, you tend to complete it faster.

For us discipline includes punctuality in coming to school and submitting our work. It means wearing a proper uniform and our behaviour towards others. Disciplined discipline is very essential if you want to come out in flying colours and to gain respect in the society.

As Gandhi rightly said:

"When health is lost, something is lost
When health is lost, everything is lost
When character is lost, everything is lost."

Let's so let us maintain discipline and decorum in the school to gain a bright future for ourselves!

Thank You

7. Gender discrimination in society

by Kamala

The recent census shows the alarming male:female ratio. This recent survey brings to light the increasing number of female foeticides. Though sex determination of baby is banned in India, such a tragic and alarming condition is prevalent in India.

In this male-dominated country, people tend to give special treatment to the boys in the family. Though such situations are reduced in modern cities, in villages face gender discrimination. Dowry system is still prevalent in many parts of the country. Women are oppressed and their needs are suppressed.

This problem can only be solved by changing people's mindset. Girls are equal in any respect to boys. Achievement by women is innumerable. Be it Kalpana Chawla, Sania Mirza or Razia Begum, women have proved their worth throughout.
People should be made aware of such great achievements of women. Stringent laws against female foeticide should be implemented. People should be educated so that they gain a broad mind.

Girls should be given special reservations in schools and colleges. The parents with girl children should be provided with incentives. Village awareness could be raised in villages through skits, plays and posters.

give the girl her rights!
Section C - Literature

8a) 'I' refers to the poet, Kamala Das.

b) The poet realises with pain that her mother has grown old and she was nearing her death.

c) The realisation was painful as the poet was very attached to her mother. The fear of separation from her was her childhood fear. The thought of her mother's death leaves her in anguish and pain.

d) Ashen like that of a corpse

a. b) With a near death experience in the YMCA pool, Douglas realises that now essential it is to overcome one's fear. He understood that it was not death but the fear of death which torments a person. He then realises that fear itself must be feared.

c) The life of joy, love and the richness depicted by Shakespeare do not have any meaning to the children of the slums. Also, the snap showed beautiful places which were out of the reach of these children. If Shakespeare is milked and the snap a bad example because they tempt the children to rob and undertake unlawful activities thereby leading their tiny foggy life into an endless night.
e) The governor of the prison told the secretary of the 2st Education Board that Evans was well trained to take the 'O' level German exam. Also he told that Evans was a nice chap and was not violent. He was rather an entertainer in the prison. He had special talent and took part in plays. The governor called Evans a congenital kleptomaniac.

f) Zinkala's first day in the land of apples was a bad experience for her. She was made to wear clothes which she considered immodest. The army like discipline followed at the dining table left her embarrassed. On & on that day, her long hair was shingled even after cries and protests from her.
10. In our life, it is great to have a role model and to be ambitious. A typical adolescent admires and may admire their favorite or hero/heroine. If so, it is alright if a teenager fantasizes about them, but when their fantasy turns to an obsession and madness, it is not acceptable.

Sophie, who is an escapist, she does not live in the reality. She tries to escape her poor economic condition and tries to live in a land of fantasy. She imagines meeting Danny Casey, but when she tells her brother about it, he goes to a place and waits for him. It turns wrong.

One must learn to understand this situation rather than living in a dream.
To prove her point, Sophie tells several lies without realizing what she says would have dire consequences. When Danny Casey does not arrive at the appointed place, she is depressed and depressed.

11. Jack ended the Rogers skunk story by saying that when the mother skunk's brother comes to know about the wizard changing her son's smell, she goes to wizards and hits him on the head. She asks him to revert back her son's smell. The wizard obliges and the Roger skunk starts smelling awful again.

Tom does not agree with the ending of the story. She wants the wizard to hit back the mommy and not to change Roger's sweet smell of roses.
she says so because she is touched by the plight of the skunk. According to her, the t mommy was stupid. She empathises with Roger skunk as the other creatures didn’t play with him because he smelled bad.

This depicts the difference in perspective of a child and an adult. As a child to only see the facts. But Jack wanted to convey a moral to Jo.

He wanted to emphasise the fact that what parents’ decisions for the children are always right.

12. The story ‘The Invisible Man’ by HG Wells talks about the path to downfall of a man named Griffin who uses science for destruction.
When Griffin reaches Bramblehurst Station, he is covered in snow. He is completely covered from head to toe. There are bandages over his face. He wears a goggles and large gloves. The he also has huge warts. He looks totally freakish. He reaches the inn "Toasts and Horses" more dead than alive and asks for a fire and room.

Mrs. Halls was very happy on having a guest as many guests were not expected in this season. Also the stranger threw a few sovereigns a large sum of money on the table. This impressed Mrs. Halls.

Mrs. Halls try tries to interact with the stranger but in vain. She tries to help him with his coat and hat but he refuses. Though Mrs. Halls is not offended, she is curious about the stranger. She attributes his strange appearance and behavior to an accident. The friar tries to talk to the stranger but he does not oblige.

In the story 'The Invisible Man' by H.G. Wells, Manuel is a local tramp who does nothing to improve his life. He is a local tramp who does nothing.

Griffin is a tramp who is shown to be a loner and is rather lazy and pessimistic. He wanders around looking for something to eat or to steal. He is a tramp who does nothing.
But the rather stupid Baxel manages to escape from the clutches invisible man and hide in a Inn called 'The Jolly Cricketers' later he when the police cannot prove the whose money Griffin had stolen. Thus Baxel retains all his money. Also he opens a hotel called 'The Invisible man' and gains money by to tell his entertaining the people with lies telling his experience with the invisible man. And he keeps Griffin's books with himself and tries to track the formula of invisibility. He often imagines his joys of becoming invisible.
